SUBJECT: Distance Learning CLEs

REFERENCE: November 12, Memo from PA CLE Board on Response to COVID19—
Live and Live Distance Learning CLEs

In response to the PA CLE Boards Memo on November 12, in response to COVID19, after decades of investment in live in person CLES and live distance learning CLES, the Department will continue to offer live distance learning CLEs post COVID19.

Our clients and customers continue to support live distance learning CLEs and since we are not a real estate investment company or public relations firm with large faculties we see no reason not to continue to invest in CLE content development and distance learning methods and technologies to meet our clients and customer needs.

This will further mean geographic barriers to attending CLEs will be no longer an issue. Anyone who has internet access can attend our CLEs and access the elearning center with materials. No longer will someone be limited by local geographic in attending any of our Law and Business or Law and Technology CLEs.

Welcome to future where CLEs can be delivered via the internet. This is especially note to legal professionals outside Pennsylvania footprint and those looking for quality CLEs not based on geography.

This is a huge cultural change for the legal profession and we look forward to the challenges. Please note, one method the Department is focused on the challenge is upcoming Volume IX of the CLE Compliance Catalogue in 2022. Volume IX will include materials in each of the three issues to assist legal professionals in making the cultural transition other fields have made in the delivery of knowledge content without geographic barriers. The future is about content over location.
